

Use of Computers and Internet

Internet access is available at Tracy Memorial Library as a resource to be utilized in fulfillment of the Library's mission to serve the needs of the New London community by providing free access to a diversity of ideas and information through a wide variety of library materials, services and experiences. The Internet allows users to connect to networks of resources outside of Tracy Library.

Tracy Library is not responsible for any material or services users order on-line and cannot provide assistance with these tasks. Use of Library computers and Internet is at patrons' own risk, including the potential for lost data or theft of personal information.

The Library has no control over Internet content, nor does the Library have complete knowledge of what is on the Internet. Information on the Internet may be reliable and current or it may be inaccurate, out-of-date or unavailable at times. It contains material that some may deem inappropriate for viewing by children. Parents and/or guardians are expected to monitor and supervise their children's use of the Internet. The Library is not in a position to provide this monitoring and supervision, and there are no filters on any Library computers.

The following regulations apply to the use of the Library's Internet computers:

1. Access is on a first-come, first-served basis.
2. When all public computers are in use, access time shall be limited.
3. Computer use is limited to ONE user per computer. Permission for more than one user may be given for special circumstances.
4. Users may save to, and work from, their own removable media, email or Cloud account. Users may print material for a fee.
5. Patrons must not use the computer for any illegal purposes, including unauthorized access, hacking, software piracy, or transmission of copyrighted materials without permission of the owner of the copyright.
6. Misuse of Library computers may result in the loss of computer privileges. Such misuse includes, but is not limited to:
 - use of the computers for any illegal purpose
 - damaging or altering computer equipment or software
 - downloading or installing any program on the hard drive
 - deliberate propagation of computer viruses
 - transmission of threatening, harassing, or abusive language
 - violation of any Library rules including but not limited to those which apply to computer use.
